IVY LEAGUE TEST PREP INTERNATIONAL, INC. dba QUANTUM TEST PREP Opposer v. SOLOMON BERMAN, An Individual, Applicant.	Opposition No. 91209816
---	--------------------------------

Commissioner of Trademarks
PO Box 1451

OPPOSER'S MOTION TO REOPEN
AND SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT THEREOF

Opposer Ivy League Test Prep International, Inc. d/b/a Quantum Test Prep ("Opposer"), by and through its undersigned attorney, submits the herein pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 6(b) and 37 C.F.R. § 2.116(a) and 2.127 requesting the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board (the "Board") reopen the testimony periods in Opposition No. 91209816 against U.S. Trademark Application Serial No. 85/651,128 filed by Applicant Solomon Berman ("Applicant").

I. FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

Opposer's previous counsel withdrew representation for this matter on July 10, 2014. This was the same day that Opposer's pretrial disclosures were due. Undersigned counsel was retained preliminarily on July 16, 2014 to review the case and informed Applicant's counsel on the same day, making an introduction and asking for an extension of time and to set a time to discuss settlement as the case was previously suspended due to settlement discussions between the parties as evidenced in the Exhibit to Applicant's September 8, 2014 filing.

Applicant conveniently does not mention his steadfast refusal to discuss settlement despite previous correspondence and discovery in the matter identifying Opposer's prior rights in the name. Per the most recent schedule set out in May 13, 2014 Suspension, Opposer's pretrial disclosures were due prior to undersigned counsel being retained. The Board issued an order on August 1, 2014 suspending proceedings pending a response which states "The parties will be notified by the Board when proceedings are resume, and dates will be reset as appropriate." See Order, Document 23. Henceforth, within the time set out by the Board, the undersigned filed an appearance of counsel after being retained for the full scope of the matter, and filed a motion to extend the dates, expecting the Board to notify the parties when proceedings would resume and reset the trial dates as appropriate. The Board dismissed the Opposition to the prejudice of Opposer, not on the merits of the case.

II. LEGAL ARGUMENT

In considering whether to open or set aside a default judgment, the TTAB has stated that "[t]he 'good and sufficient cause' standard, in the context of [37 C. F. R. § 2.132(a)], is equivalent to the 'excusable neglect' standard which would have to be met by any motion under FRCP 6(b) to reopen the plaintiff's testimony period." HKG Indus., Inc. v. Perma-Pipe Inc., 49 USPQ2d 1156, 1157 (T. T. A. B. 1998). Thus, Opposer's motion to reopen the opposition is proceeding is made pursuant to that Rule. In analyzing excusable neglect, the TTAB has relied on the Supreme Court's discussion of excusable neglect in Pioneer Investment Services Co. v. Brunswick Associates Limited Partnership, 507 U. S. 380, 113 S. Ct. 1489, 123 L. Ed. 2d 74 (1993). See, e. g., Mattel, Inc. v. Henson, 88 Fed. Appx. 401 (Fed. Cir. 2004) (confirming applicability of Pioneer factors to TTAB proceedings).

The Pioneer case dealt with a bankruptcy rule permitting a late filing if the movant's failure to comply with an earlier deadline "was the result of excusable neglect." 507 U. S. at 382, 113 S. Ct. 1489.

The Supreme Court defined the inquiry into excusable neglect as an equitable one, taking account of all relevant circumstances surrounding the party's omission. These include (1) the danger of prejudice to the nonmovant, (2) the length of the delay and its potential impact on judicial proceedings, (3) the reason for the delay, including whether it was within the reasonable control of the movant, and (4) whether the movant acted in good faith. 507 U.S. at 395. Under the circumstances, the Board has ample reason to employ its leniency and authorize the reopening of the testimony period in the interest of resolving the present matter on the merits. Opposer should be granted an opportunity to respond and show cause why judgment should not be entered against it based on the Board suspending proceedings in light of its timely response to the Board's order to appoint new counsel.

Applicant claims to have begun use of its mark as early as July 1, 2011 (see Exhibit A), and as such Applicant and Opposer's common law rights have coexisted. Opposer does, however, urge estoppel on this motion (as the substance of the Opposition). Opposer merely raises this issue to demonstrate that Applicant has not been harmed in any quantum greater than it had already been by virtue of the delay since the July 10, 2014 deadline, and cannot demonstrate prejudice. On the contrary, Opposer had engaged Applicant in good faith settlement discussions only to find that Applicant's steadfast refusal to limit its usage despite discovery and voluntary production that reflected Opposer's prior rights in the mark. See Exhibit B. Opposer offered settlement as an effort to allow Applicant to continue some limited use of its mark despite having senior rights in its mark. The length of the delay is minor in this matter – less than 4 months to reopen Opposer's testimony and trial period will not prejudice Applicant, especially in light of the Board suspending proceedings in early August. On the contrary, when Opposer requested an extension to properly brief the case and rekindle settlement talks, Applicant not only denied the request but in less than 2 weeks on July 30, 2014, informed counsel that it will refuse to accept any pretrial disclosures from Opposer on this matter. As such, and given the Board's order two days later suspending the proceeding, Opposer filed an appearance and awaited the Board's lift on the suspension. Given Applicant's explicit refusal of Opposer's disclosures, Opposer determined it would proceed once the Board lifted the stay on the proceedings as stated in its August 1, 2014 order.

The delay if reopened would not impact the proceedings adversely, only seek to rightfully determine the case on the merits given Applicant's steadfast refusal to come to a settlement. Applicant fails to mention that Opposer provided settlement terms which were drafted into an initial agreement which was then negotiated based on the parties respective usage and position, contrary to allegations that Opposer stifled settlement discussions. The notice to Applicant of the withdrawal of Opposer's counsel, and the introduction of undersigned counsel shortly thereafter showed Opposer's interest and good faith in prosecuting this matter. As the length of the delay is not significant in this context, there is no impact on other pending judicial proceedings. The reason for the delay once undersigned counsel made an appearance was in light of the Board's order issuing a suspension coupled with Applicant's stated refusal to accept testimony/trial documents from Opposer, which all occurred less than one month into Opposer's trial period at which time it legitimately understood that Applicant was interested in settling the matter due to past discussions and work done towards settlement.

Further, Opposer discovered evidence that counsel for Applicant made illicit attempts to directly communicate with Opposer through business channels, posing as a customer requesting personalized tutoring services from Opposer. See Exhibit C. Opposer, exercising caution, notified counsel of this attempt which resulted in little faith in the fair dealings of Applicant, which lead to several discovery issues that were addressed by the parties. Given Opposer's past interaction with Applicant in this regard in conjunction with the replacement of Opposer's counsel and Applicant's stated refusal to accept disclosures from Opposer barring a Board order, Opposer had good faith in awaiting the issuance of an order lifting the suspension. No showing has been made that any of Applicant's witnesses and evidence have become unavailable as a result of the proceedings. See Pratt v. Philbrook, 109 F. 3d 18 (1st Cir. 1997).

Opposer is a small but growing business and has waves of increased workload to gear up for tutoring sessions as testing takes place for various purposes, including GMAT, GRE, and LSAT courses which are offered throughout the year, not to include other trade shows and private tutoring which Opposer handles completely internally, offering them to a growing number of students each year. See Exhibit D. As such, any delay or unavailability to schedule testimonial period, given that they are also an international business in Canada which has reach in the United States, was completely in good faith, to which the first two weeks of July had twelve events, both in person and online in the form of tutorials and workshops for which demand is set as students sign up.

Default judgment is an extreme sanction, and "a weapon of last, not first, resort." Martin v. Coughlin, 895 F. Supp. 39 (N. D. N. Y. 1995). Ultimately, there is no reason in this situation to depart from the well-known preference in the federal courts that litigation disputes be resolved on their merits. See, Richardson v. Nassau County, 184 F. R. D. 497, 501 (E. D. N. Y. 1999). While this dismissal is not framed as a default, it in effect serves as a decision not made on the merits of the case as the above facts show are still in controversy.

III. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Opposer respectfully requests that the Board decision be set aside and that leave be granted to reopen the testimony and trial periods.

Mr. Burda,

Today is the day we are supposed to exchange dates, and proof of first use. Please see the below and the attached documents relating to such.

On July 1, 2011 our client formed the company Quantum Tutoring and July 19, 2011 our client purchased the domain name TheQuantumTutor.com (domain name data attached). The site went live on August 18, 2011 (announcement email attached). From the time of inception our client has been offering educational services, namely, providing classes, seminars, workshops, tutoring, and counseling to the public (Website screen shot attached). This use of the name Quantum Tutoring instituted common law rights for our client in the name Quantum and Quantum Tutoring.

On June 15, 2012 our client transitioned from Quantum Tutoring, and formed an LLC under the name Quantum Prep and obtained the domain quantumprep.net (LLC formation attached). On July 19, 2012 the official live change over took place to Quantum Prep (screen shot attached).

Therefore, our client can establish rights in the term Quantum on July 1, 2011 locally and use throughout the US via the website on August 18, 2011. Additionally, our client can document rights in the name Quantum Prep since July 19, 2012. Our client has used the name Quantum in connection with educational services continuously from July 1, 2011 to the present day.

RE: Opposition No. 91209816
QUANTUM TEST PREP v. SOLOMON BERMAN

Mr. Shortell,

As you may know, the Lanham Act expressly defines "use in commerce" as the bona fide use of a mark in the ordinary course of trade. More specifically as use relates to services, the Lanham Act requires the mark to be used or displayed in the sale or advertising of services and the services rendered in commerce, or the services rendered in more than one state in the United States and a foreign country and the person rendering the services engaged in commerce in connection with the services. 15. U.S.C. § 1127. The Lanham Act therefore imposes two conditions: (1) the mark is used or displayed in the advertising or sale of services; and (2) the services are "rendered in commerce."

First, our client, Quantum Test Prep, through its website (<http://www.quantumtestprep.com/>), has used and displayed its QUANTUM mark and has been offering its standardized test preparation services since as early as February 2011. We have provided documents showing that our client's website was active as early as this date, with dated blog articles in the field of standardized test preparation services (QTP000001 to QTP000512). However, we understand your previous contentions that this does not necessarily prove the second element that the services were rendered in commerce despite the fact that the website was available in the United States.

Therefore, we also provided you evidence of sales to students in the United States (QTP000515 to QTP000524, and QTP000545 to QTP000552, among others) documenting sales and services rendered to students in the United States, dated as early as January 20, 2011. David Baird, instructor for Quantum Test Prep, personally provided tutoring to students in the United States, as evidenced by invoices for payment which are corroborated with emails that have been produced. The latest disclosures make clear the provision of standardized test preparation services under the QUANTUM mark by Quantum Test Prep months prior to Mr. Berman's first use in the United States.

Linville v. Rivard, 41 USPQ2d 1731 (TTAB 1996), which you state "makes clear that minimal U.S. activities are insufficient to establish 'use in commerce,'" in which "U. S. spillover from advertising, coupled with evidence of sporadic visits by U. S. residents to Canada, was insufficient to establish 'use in commerce' for the Canadian company in the absence of any U. S. locations." Your citation of this, and other cases is misguided as that case deals with abandonment and the facts are not in line with the present situation. Putting that aside, the Linville case deals with the respondent who engaged in activities such as advertising the services on Canadian radio and television stations whose listening/viewer areas extend in the United States, among other similar advertising efforts. Linville v. Rivard, 1996 TTAB LEXIS 32 (Trademark Trial & App. Bd. Sept. 27, 1996). Your interpretation, as well as the court's, is correct in that services rendered 'in commerce' does not include exclusive reliance on advertising reaching the United States which may affect commerce by the travel of customers from the United States to respondent's Canadian salons. Quantum Test Prep has not only advertised in the United States via email and through its website, but it also actually provided its services to students residing in the United States as evidence by the aforementioned documents that have been provided to you.

Furthermore, Quantum Test Prep advertised its services through business-to-business channels by targeting MBA program directors at higher education institutions throughout the United States. This contact, advertisement and provision of services is not de minimus as your previous correspondence indicates. Quantum Test Prep marketed its services to United States higher education institutions in this manner in both Canada at the QS World Fair, as well as in Chicago, at the QS World Grad School Tour (QTP000553 to QTP000726).

In Computer Food Stores, Inc. v. Corner Store Franchises, Inc., 176 U. S. P. Q. (BNA) 535 (TTAB 1973), the Board ruled that, on the record before it, advertising that included a service mark before the service itself was available was sufficient to establish analogous use, and therefore prior rights, but did so only after holding that analogous use "must be an open and notorious public use directed to the segment of the purchasing public for whom the services are intended, and must be used in a manner sufficient . . . to inform or apprise prospective purchasers of the present or future availability of the adopter's service under the mark." Id. at 538. Our responsive documents show that post cards and emails were sent to over 1,200 students located in Canada and the United States advertising Quantum Test Prep's services. These marketing efforts directed at American consumers and the actual provision of services goes well beyond the requirement to establish prior rights under not only the analogous use doctrine, but of actual use. See also Johnny Blastoff, Inc. v. Los Angeles Rams Football Co., 188 F.3d 427.

Taking a view most favorable to your client and putting aside the direct evidence of actual use, Quantum Test Prep's use far exceeds the requirements to bring an action and prevail against Mr. Berman's usage. In an opposition founded on § 2(d), an opposer must prove that it has proprietary rights in the term it relies upon to prove likelihood of confusion. The proof could consist of ownership of a registration, prior use of an unregistered mark, prior use in advertising, or as a trade name, or any other type of use which has resulted in establishing a trade identity. . . . Thus, even prior use by opposer of the term as a trade name . . . or use in advertising analogous to trademark use, may be sufficient to preclude registration of that term to a subsequent user. Use "analogous" to trademark use means use of a nature and extent such as to create an association of the term with the user's services. Examples of use analogous to trademark use to establish priority under § 2(d) include prior use of a term: in advertising brochures, in catalogues and newspapers, and in press releases and trade publications. Malcolm Nicol & Co. v. Witco Corp., 881 F.2d 1063, 1065 (Fed. Cir. 1989). Here, Quantum Test Prep has provided direct evidence, without relying simply on declarations, of actual use based on its marketing efforts and actual usage in the United States.

At common law, "prior ownership of a mark is only established as of the first actual use of a mark in a genuine commercial transaction." Allard Enters., Inc. v. Adv. Programming Res., Inc., 146 F.3d 350, 358 (6th Cir. 1998). While a single sale may indicate the first use of a mark, it must be the beginning of "continuous commercial utilization." Allard, 146 F.3d at 358. Obviously, as § 1052(d) requires, such use must also be "in the United States." See Person's Co. v. Christman, 900 F.2d 1565, 1568-69 (Fed. Cir. 1990) (T-shirt sales in Japan are not "use in United States commerce"). Our client has proffered evidence of provision of its services to multiple students in the United States from January to March 2011, which not only meets but exceeds the burden to show the beginning of "continuous commercial utilization" especially in light of its later activities. Even if actual use were not present, the analogous use doctrine provides Quantum Test Prep priority over Mr. Berman in this matter.

We trust that after you have had a chance to review these documents and cases with your client, a more forthcoming settlement can be reached. Our client is willing to entertain a settlement offer regarding a limited co-existence and/or provide a reasonable phase-out period to Mr. Berman contingent on express abandonment with prejudice of his QUANTUM PREP mark. This letter does not contain a complete statement of the facts or of Quantum Test Prep's rights, all of which are hereby reserved.

Sincerely,

to Douglas, Vivek,

Doug,

Just wanted to let you know that Berman's lawyer (Brendan Shortell) has been going on our website recently (Dec 13th) and filling in GMAT Personal Assessment forms (which are forms students fill in to receive a free 30minute 1-on-1 In-Person Assessment).

We have not responded to this inquiry yet (not sure that we should).

What do you make of this?

Should you be speaking to him about why they're trying to involve themselves in our business?

Is this an attempt for their lawyer to try to circumvent you and speak to us directly?

Could you please let me know your thoughts on this when you can?

Thanks very much!

FREE GMAT Simulated Exam @ Rotman School of Management

July 12 @ 12:30 pm - 4:30 pm | Free

Quantum Test Prep offers FREE monthly GMAT simulated exams at our specialized computer lab facility at Rotman School of Management, University of Toronto. We use the newest version of the Official GMAT software, GMAT Prep II, which includes the new Integrated Reasoning section of the exam. The exam centre is proctored which means that students will be able to write a complete practice GMAT exam, under real exam conditions.

You will first be asked to write an AWA-Argument Essay followed by Integrated Reasoning (the newest section of the exam), Quantitative, and finally Verbal. Afterwards you will be given an estimated Total GMAT score as well as individual Math & Verbal scores. The total exam experience will take approximately 3½-4hrs.

Please note that due to popularity of this service the seating is limited as spaces fill up quickly. The exam is run on a first-come, first-serve basis hence pre-registration is required and walk-ins are not allowed to sit in.

You may pre-register to attend an upcoming simulated GMAT exam by clicking the button below:

Chicago: 30hr GMAT Bootcamp Course

June 27 @ 6:00 pm - July 1 @ 10:00 pm | $699

The Quantum Chicago GMAT Bootcamp is an intensive 5-day (30-hour) GMAT test prep course held over the course of a single extended weekend. There are 3 different Bootcamp modules; a GMAT Math Fundamentals module, a GMAT Verbal Fundamentals module, and a GMAT Integrated Reasoning/AWA module. We let you take either our entire 5-day (30-hour) Bootcamp or just the individual modules you need.

The Chicago GMAT course offered is a comprehensive format that covers the fundamentals of verbal, quantitative and essay question formats. It offers the best value for money (in terms of $ per teaching hour) of any GMAT course available in the market. The general format of the 1 weekend (+ 2 evenings) course is as follows:

Friday, June 27th: 6pm-10pm - GMAT Math Fundamentals
Saturday, June 28th: 9am-6:30pm - GMAT Math Fundamentals
Sunday, June 29th: 9am-6:30pm - GMAT Verbal Fundamentals
Monday, June 30th: 6pm-10pm - GMAT Verbal Fundamentals
Tuesday, Jul1 1st: 6pm-10pm - GMAT AWA and IR Fundamentals
